WHERMAN introduced the solveres with vicep interest the civil war now existing in Cuba, and sympathise with its people as with the people of all American nations or colonies in the effort to secure independence from European powers; therefore,

Bu tracked, de., That the United States recognise the present existence of a state of repeats powers, therefore.

Be it resided, de. That the United States recognize the present aristence of a state of war between the kingdom of Spais and the colony of Cubs, and waged on the part of Cubs to establish its independence, and the United States will observe a strict neutrality between beligerent parties, as is their duty under the law of nations.

Mr. SHERMAN said he desired to call the attention of the Committee on Foreign Relations to the fact that the people of this country would not much longer tolerate the cold indifference of the Government toward Cuban affairs. It was but natural a struggle like that now progressing on easy our own part between Cuba and Spain. His resolution tid not propose to recognize Calanginous our own part between Cuba and Spain. Me SUMNER said the Committee on Foreign Resistions had somewhat considerated the subject, but facts before them as to the actual condition of Cuban affairs were not sufficient to warrant definite action.

Me NHERMAN remarked that the fact that Spain had built thirty gunboats in our ports to put down what was said to be a little rebellion, was sufficient warrant for his resolution. A quaction of order by Mr. Davis that in its present stage the resolution was not debatable, being affirmed by the chair, the resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

MR. POMEROY, from the Committee on Public Lands, reported, without amendment, a bill providing for the location of agricultural scrip by actual settlers; also, with anendment, a bill providing for the sale of certain lands on Sea Island, in Besufort county, South Carolina.

Mr. DRAKE renewed his amendment to continue the existing privileges of the law in favor of publishers of newspapers and periodicals. He said the true policy was to encourage the circulation of country papers.

Mr. CONKLING favored the immediate passage of the bill. MR. CONKLING favored the immediate passage of the bill.

MR MORTON declared himself in favor of abolishing the franking privilege for one reason among others that the so-salled privilege had been to members of Congress a great annoyance. He did not think the Gorenment would save one dollar by the proposed reform, but treferred that the present measure should be properly perfected so that the same would not have to be gone over hereafter.

ppears before the first ray of daylight. Cincinnati despairs of success in her

Supreme bench of that State: the Commercial that she has a quantity peanuts which she would like to exchange for mud-road wagons in Louisville. In this she is sensible. A few such wagons the trade Louisville allows her.

He was "gracefully welcomed to his seat by Chief Justice Moses." And who is this by Chief Justice Moses." And who is this pettilogger whom they call "Chief Justice Moses?" A carperbag adventurer who, perhaps, has as much legal learning as "Mr. J. J. Wright," but who could no more render an impartial decision when confronted with what Brother Corbin called "a little solder" than he could jump into Ever Summer term the could jump into Fort Sumter from the disputants set up for oracles. They do not urge, defend and establish their opinions as far as they can, admitting the truth of the State Senate and thence to the Sulearns by either side in a Congressional de-bate, and the debate of Thursday in both ber of the Senat as the most notable mem-such laws and white riff-raff as neither gods

He draws attention to the walls which shut off the Israelites from the rest of humanity, as though they were unclean things, but he does not say, as does the correspondent of the Post, that these walls—removed by order of Plus IX. -were originally raised as a barrier to the rapacity of the nobles and their licentions as a protection against the excesses of the rabble, who, during the dark ages, con-nected every national or popular calamity with soreery and witchcraft, and wreaked its vengeance upon those who were then looked upon as adepts in the black art. We are told that the present Pope has a sham, a quiddity, an absurdity.

Already the real estate people and stockjobbers of Cincinnati are preparing to appropriate depot sites and town spots and land grants along the line of the projected right of way, which, if they do not secure those that will carry from three to five hundred tons, with respectable acgrants along the line of Keptneys, they term the Legislature of Keptneys, they right of way, which, if they do not secure it from the Legislature of Kentucky, they expect to obtain, as the Chronicle recommendations for passengers, but not expect to obtain, as the Chronicle recommendations from Congress. It is said that the trustees under the Ferguson bill are as munificent as they are premature in disamples of the right of the recommendations of the right of the recommendations of the recommendation of the recommendat numificent as they are premature in dis-posing of the still undonated soil of Ken-ticky. They remind us of the English gentleman who imagined himself the rich-est man in the world. Being abroad, his cordingly. We have said and must repeat with which he bequeathed large estates, tortunes in stocks and valuable jewels to various people, who, not knowing how for the form of of it to his tenant, who can make such alterations and repairs in the property as to the such as a property best suit his own convenience, and oldest citizens, will-known to this community as a prominent steamhoatman and river-man for

And then let us look to the Cumberland, Tennessee, Red, and other rivers, and when we have supplied the boats required by commerce and completed our railroads we need fear no rivals in trade, but will move on prospering and to prosper.

Some Old Bills.

The peculations of Senator Harlan, while Secretary of the Interior, are being developed at Washington, and some of the facts and figures already revealed are given us by the correspondent of the New York Sun. The Secretary went to housekeeping, it seems, in the fall of 1965. His house is said to have been very richly furnished, and the following bill and receipt, copied from the official-files, throw some light upon the way in which it was done.

The United States to James Harlan, Dr.

The United States to James Harlan, Dr. tinguished themselves by attention to the sick, the Jewish medical men and nurses were placed upon the same footing as their Christian colleagues. Under the Cæsars it was the law that the Jews should perform certain sacrifices for each Emperorthe first upon his coronation, the others whenever he fell ill or engaged in any war. whenever as even in or engaged in any war. When Christianity became the religion of the empire the form of the homage was modified. A deputation of the principal rabbis used to present to the newly-elected Pope a copy of the Pentateuch written on parchment, from which he would read a chapter, and then add: "We concede to you the Law, but we condemn your interpreta-tion of it; for He of whom you say 'He will come' has already come in the person of Jesus Christ, who, we pray, may open your eyes to the truth." This is entirely different from the version given by an imaginative writer, who has put into the mouth of the Popes the words, "We curse the Hebrew people and their exposition of the Law, but we affirm it." was common there in the early days of the bonded-warehouse system, and the plan of ment:

J. P. BARNUM, M. D. course, had no more to do with the horses than the Prince of Wales. There are many other facts produced to show how handsomely Senator Harlan took care of himself while Secretary of the Interior, but the above will suffice here for the present.

SATERDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 12, 1870

The Mormon have commenced their work of making converts on Long Island. A number of their most elequent elders are to canvas New England for the purpose of turning the natives from the "errors of their ways to the true faith." When it was first rumored, that such a thing would be attempted or permitted in that high moral latitude, it was laughed at as impossible. These saintly acamps are to be allowed to potson the minds of the innocent factory girls, who number thousands in many of the towns, and this to the face of the recent bill introduced in Congress prohibiting polygamy in Utah. It is extraordinary that the authors of all the immoral them that are constantly being declarate and

"True Love."

Lady Di Beauclerk, a daughter of a former Duke of St. Albans by his second marriage with Mrs. Coutts, the millionaire, is a young English authoress, who wrote last year a very bright, sketchy book, called "A Summer in Norwsy," and has followed it by a novel with the above title. The story commences in England, the hero is an artist, the heroise a factory gift, He virits America, by the way, before the story closes, and returns afterwards to undergo the tribulations common to swains and to marry the young woman. A descrited to undergo the tribulations common to swains and to marry the young woman. A descride child, a parent found, a clerical scamp, a burglary and a trial are the somewhat stereotyped materials used. The book, however, is quite clever in its description of middle-class. English life, and is written in a racy, graphic style, with occasional touches of much feeling. To those interested in true-love, or who have any desire to knew of what it consists this novel will be as absorbing as anything of asculturated nature can well be, while its describ-

The Last Act of the "Diamond Wedding."

Who does not remember the great "diamond wedding," which took place some ten years ago in New York, in which Senor Oviedo, a wealthy Cuban, and the beautiful Miss Bartlett were the principals? Poets sang of the charms of the bride and the costliness of her trousseen, with its miraculous laces, silks and diamonds. The gorgeous wedding ceremony at St. Patrick's Cathedral, the goasip about the affair, the display of the bride's presents and trousseen, and the fabul naw wealth of the dark, ill-favored, little, middle aged Cuban, furnished matter for the seribbling of an army of exulting "Jenkinses," thirsting for "further particulars." The departure of the moody bridegroom and his lovely bride (who bore, by the way, as remarkable resemblance to the Empress of France) to the paintal manion on one of the Cuban extates left all New York in despair. There, seeluded and almost immured from all eyes, like an Eastern saltans, surrounded by every luxury wealth could give, this fair young American has spent ten years of her life with an insectibe, jealous and chough to die and leave his still beautiful young widow to moorn him in unexceptions ble black velvet, rare lace and solitaires,

"Getting late the Papers."

The thirst for notoricity has created a demand for the minutest particulars about everybody and everything. In many instances the material, or rather the information about various persons, such as their movements, partics, dresses, guests, &c., is furnished to the papers by the men and women themselves through the reporters, gratutiously, with beserving injunctions that the descriptions, particularly of their dresses and guests and what they wore at Jones' party, which great the eye in almost every New York paper, are furnished by old Jones or Mrs. Jones, who gets the elaborate descriptions from the females when gorsense stellate. make whose gorgeous tollettes are so minutely described in a way that only a woman could. There are hundreds of families of new people in the great metropolis and elsewhere who would think their parties failures if the list of guests, what they had on, a description of the sumptions mansion and how gracefully they did the honors of their houses were not dilated upon. Of course the whole system is the result of a foolish main for notority in those to whom seeing their names in print, their dresses described, and the "discounsed most of the time of the company" they have been in made known, is intoxicating in its exhibitation. As a pure matter of business, many papers, seeing this, take care to get everything of the kind and thus obtain a wide circulation. Whatever the public laste craves it will have, and now-a-days a paper made up of the choicest literary matter every day will go to the wall, when one which gives the claborate account of Jones' party, the dresses of the Misses Jones, the guests, and a list of distinguished men present, will sell like a quack medicine. A great many unsophisticated beings, who have no idea of the mystaries of journalism, and what a pitiable view of the weakness and vanity of poor humanity the journalist daily sees, imagine that much of the information about personal and social matters which they

The Cincinnal Commercial questions the taste of the President in appointing his papes the postmaster at Corlington. It might have been worse, however. Suppose Mr. Halstead had been appointed, would his patriotism have permitted him to declinesso signal an evidence of the Kreeutive appreciation of his hors in the cause of the party of great moral ideas?

Mr. Romerc C. Wirstmor, in his address at the funeral of the late Geo Peabody, related this anecdote: "While he was lying, seemisely unconscious, on his death bed in London, at the house of his kind friend, Sir Curtis Lampson, and when all direct command. seemisgly unconclous, on his death bed in London, at the house of his kind friend, Sir Curtis Lampson, and when all direct communications with him had been for a time suspended, it was mentioned atout in his presence, in a manner and with a parpose, to test his consections, and the highly valued acquaintance had called to see him; but he took no notice of the remark. Not long aftewards, it was stated to a tone lond enough for him to hear, that the Qamb herself had sent a special telegram of inquiry and sympathy; but even that failed to arouse him. Once more, at no long interval, it was remarked that a faithfull minister of the Gospel, with whom he had once made a voyage to America, was at the door; and his attention was instantly attracted. The 'good man,' as he called him with his last breath, was received by him, and prayed with him, more tran once. It is a great mystery,' he feebly observed, but I shall know all soon;' while his repeated ameas gave audible and abundant evidence that those prayers were not lost upon his ear or upon his heart. The friendships of earth could no longer soothe him. The highest honors of the world—the kind attentions of a Sovereign whom he knew how to respect,

Prof. Bauer's Concert. Prof. Bauer's Concert.

The sale of seats at Tripp's yesterday, for Prof. Bauer's concert, was quite lively, and foreshodowed, beyond a doubt, both a first-class and a crowded audience at Masonic Temple on Monday evening. It will be a musical retrainment, such as has not been afforded the Louisville public for a long time, as many of the most talented smatters and professionals of the city have volunteered to assist. The testimonial to Prof. Sauer is a deserved one, and will no doubt be met by the nublic in the same generous spirit in which it was tendered by his musical friends.

Masonic Temple Last Night.

There was a fashlonable and crowded audience at Masonic Temple last evening, on the occasion of the second entertainment by the Masonic Dramatic Club for the benefit of the Masonic Widows and Orphans' Home Society. The entertainment consisted of two pieces, "The Rent Day," and a travesty on "The Lady of Lyons," The performance was without fault, and did much credit to the talented amateurs who participated. "The Rent Day," and anong the first of its class. The parts were remarkably well sustained. The travesty on "The Lady of Lyons," however, was the feature of the entertainment, and kept the large audience in an uproar from beginning to end. By special request it will be repeated at a matinee this attention, at which the full clab will appear, and afford a fund of amascenet that will spay one well to see. There will no doubt be a large audience.

A Band of Burglars Broken up by a "timely Arrest."

On Thursday last a party of five actionius thieves and burglars arrived in this city from Fitishurg for the purpose of "working" the town. The police had timely notice of their arrival, and have been on the look-out for them. The burglars had their plans nicely laid, and not an arrangements had been placed on their track. Information was given to the police yesterday that arrangements had been made by this party to enter the nonse of a well known cutzen last in hight, and steps were taken to nip the aflair in the bud. Yesterday afternoon Nicholas Goolender, the leader of the band, was recognized on Market street, between Third and Fourth, by officer Bruder, from a description illed at the police office. Officer Bruder followed the man for several bours, and, atteredoes, by officer Bruder, from a description illed at the police office. Officer Bruder followed the man for several bours, and, atteredoes, by officer Bruder, from a description illed at the police office. Officer Bruder followed the man for several bours, and, atteredoes, by officer Bruder, from a description illed at the police office. Officer Bruder followed the man for several bours, and, atteredoes, and with the assistance of Lieut, Tracey, arrested him. Upon searching bitm a full and complete set of burglar's tools were found in his poasession. He was also armed with a platfol, but did not attempt to resist arrest. He is an old offender, and it is said served a term in the Pennsylvania penitentiary. He was looked up in the First-street station-boose, and will have an examination this morning. The timely arrest of the leader of the band has doubtless prevented a series of daring burglaries.

Golladay's Drawings. was most admirable in all of its appointments.

Mr. Bowler sang "Thon art so near and yet so far," with a good deal of finish and feeling, and was warmly encored; and Mr. Bernard was equally happy in "Oh, whisper what thon feelest." The orchestra managed the music of "The Crown Diamonds" better than it did that of the "Hugaenots," which is altogether too difficult, heavy and intricate for so small an orchestral force.

To-day at two 'clock "The Doctor of Alcantara" will be given, and to-night the Poetlin of Lonjuneau for the grand complimentary benefit of Mrs. Bernard.

On Monday it should be remembered that Mr. J. K. Emmet, the Dutch comedian, commences in Fritz, Our Cousin German, a part in which he is inimitable.

A Madman shoots His Wife and Then Blows Out His Brains.

[From the Atchion (Kansas) Champion, Feb. 9.] Vesterday forenoon at about half-past 9 o'clock occurred one of the most terrible tragedies that has ever startled our city. A man named Francis Battermer shot his wife twice, indicting wounds that will most certainly terminate in her death, and then, placing the nevolver at his own head, shot himself, dropping dead in an instant, which we have been dead to be a considered with the follows:

Note that the control of the Farmers' House. The facts developed by the examination of witnesses at the coroner's inquest are as follows:

His wife and a grown-up son, as well as other witnesses who knew him, lestified that he had been subject for some time past to fits of mental derangement, in which he imagined that some persons were coming to hang him, and that all his retaitives were in league with these enemies or avengers. The family came here from the vicinity of Monticello, lows. Yesterday mon'ng buttermer and his wife were to the control of th
